PHILIPPINE NATIONAL HEALTH RESEARCH SYSTEM
PNHRS WEEK

RESEARCH AND INNOVATION FOR EQUITY IN HEALTH

6-9 AUGUST 2018 | CAP John Hay Trade and Cultural Center, Baguio City

PROGRAM BOOK

The Philippine National Health Research System (PNHRS) is an integrated national framework for health research in the country. It is a convergence strategy that aims to promote cooperation and integration of all health research efforts and stakeholders in the country to ensure that research contributes to evidence-informed health policies and actions.

The Department of Science and Technology (DOST), with the Department of Health (DOH), established the Philippine National Health Research System (PNHRS), through a signing of a Memorandum of Understanding on March 17, 2003. In 2007, the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) and University of the Philippines Manila (UPM) joined as core agencies of the PNHRS.

VISION

A dynamic and responsive health research community working for the attainment of national and global health goals

MISSION

To generate and use knowledge, innovation, technology, products and services in promoting the health and well-being of every Filipino by creating and sustaining an enabling environment for health research

12TH PNHRS WEEK

Every second week of August, the health research community celebrates the Philippine National Health Research System (PNHRS) Week.

The theme of the 12th PNHRS Week celebration is “Research and Innovation for Equity in Health,” set for 6-9 August 2018 at the CAP John Hay Trade and Cultural Center, Baguio City.

The conference will serve as a platform for participants to discuss the current situation, challenges, and advancements related to improving health and equity through reinforced health research and innovation in the regions and local communities.

The conference is organized by the Philippine Council for Health Research and Development in collaboration with the Cordillera Regional Health Research and Development Consortium.

MESSAGE

It is with great pleasure that I welcome everyone to the 12th Philippine National Health Research System Week celebration here in the CAP-John Hay Trade and Cultural Center, Baguio City.

This celebration marks twelve years of our collaboration as a health research community committed to make science, technology, and innovation in health work for our people.

The theme “Research and Innovation for Equity in Health” emphasizes our collective goal as a System to develop solutions in response to the needs of our health system.

As we come together for this event, let us continue to set the pace for health research as we develop outcomes that improve the health and quality of life of Filipinos, thus, enable them to be productive contributors of the country’s development.

Mabuhay tayong lahat!

MESSAGE

DR. MA. GERALDINE F. CASIPIT

Chair, CRHRDC Officer-in-Charge

Commission on Higher Education (CHED)
Cordillera Administrative Region (CAR)

The Cordillera Regional Health Research and Development Consortium (CRHRDC) is very much privileged to host this year's Philippine National Health Research System (PNHRS) Week celebration. Indeed, the convergence of hundreds of researchers, users of research results, policy makers, supporters and funders of research in this national conference manifests a stronger collaboration to intensify the promotion of a smoother exchange of health research and related information among concerned stakeholders.

Truly, this year's theme, "Research and Innovation for Equity in Health" is very significant. The emergence of various diseases not only in the country but globally is alarming as morbidity rate due to health afflictions is increasing, thus research and innovation is imperative not only to address this concern but also to improve the health condition of people. In a Global Forum on Health Research conducted in 2012, many developing countries have double or triple disease burdens that are becoming ever more similar to those in 'high income countries' in the past. However, the score is poor on one indicator – equity, specifically health equity. Within and between countries, income and health disparities are increasing. Inequities within countries are even more blatant than those between low and high income countries. This means that most of the world's poor will soon live in middle income rather than in low income countries. So, there is a need not only for more local forums like the PNHRS Conference but also for more global platforms to be initiated to discuss health progress, and by advocating for high income countries to spend more of their research resources in dealing with diseases of low income countries. This way, it would lessen disparity among peoples of different countries.

Certainly, the annual conduct of the PNHRS Conference in the country, through parallel and plenary sessions, regular forums, and focus group discussions, serves as an avenue for participants to further discuss the current situation, challenges and advancements related to improving health and equity through reinforced health and innovations in the regions and local communities. This paves the way of setting aside differences in addressing local health concerns.

With this, we therefore welcome all the participants in this national undertaking as we all witness the success of this significant activity. To the Conference Chair and former Chair of CRHRDC, UP Chancellor Raymundo D. Rovillos, together with the Working Committees from both CRHRDC and PCHRD relative to the preparation of this Conference, job well done!

To Philippine Council for Health Research and Development (PCHRD), headed by Dr. Jaime Montoya, more power!

MESSAGE

On behalf of the Cordillera Regional Health Research and Development Consortium (CRHRDC) and the Organizing Committee of the 12th Philippine National Health Research System (PNHRS) Week Celebration, I would like to extend our warmest greetings to all participants, paper readers and guests to cool Baguio City.

Hosting this year's PNHRS week has been a daunting task, given the tremendous success of previous conferences organized by the Philippine Council for Health Research and Development (PCHRD) in partnership with regional health consortiums and local institutions. Still, we took on the challenge, knowing that it will be another opportunity for CRHRDC and its member institutions to learn and to strengthen its organizational capacity. Indeed, it has been quite an edifying, empowering and at the same time a delightful experience for us.

We chose the theme: “Research and Innovation for Equity in Health” not only because of its universal appeal but also (and more so) on account of its particular relevance to our Cordillera Region. This region is home to eight major ethno-linguistic groups or Indigenous Peoples (IPs), collectively referred to as “Igorots” and/or Cordillerans. It is a region and people/s that knows and experiences what it means to be live in marginal and marginalizing conditions due to the inequitable distribution and allocation of resources; the “minoritizing” impacts of some national development policies, programs and projects and the disempowering outcome of the asymmetrical power relations between the center and the periphery. How is this context related to the current preoccupation with research and innovation?

There is not doubt that research and innovation are important catalysts for national development, especially in the era knowledge-based economies. However, we believe that it is still important to ask the quintessential question: “health research, development and innovation for whom?” We argue that equity concerns (e.g. health for all) should be the ultimate goal of research and innovation in health. Innovation and development for ALL, regardless of class, gender, ethnicity and other axes of social difference are not inherently opposed. They are, and must be intertwined.

We trust that this week's conversations and exhibits will be able to substantively articulate and elaborate this year's theme.

We enjoin everyone to actively participate in this week-long celebration and cerebation.

Dios ti Agnina Kadakayo Amin!

Prof. Raymundo D. Rovillos, Ph.D.
Chairman, Organizing Committee
Chancellor, UP Baguio

CONSULTATION ON CLINICAL TRIALS REGULATION GUIDELINES

4:00-5:30 PM | Main Hall A

Session Managers: Joana Angostora & Rogelio Guaring, PCHRD

Today's researchers understand that it is not enough to do research and communicate results to gain public understanding and support. In the session, discussion on how research results and products should be able to reach the hands and minds of the stakeholders who will utilize it to shape and inform policymaking will be conducted. The objective of the session is to raise awareness on how certain strategies influence public policy, discuss the barriers and opportunities in translating research to policy, and to affect change on the current policy environment of the participants' institution.

8:00 – 8:10	Doxology, National Anthem
8:10 – 8:25	Opening Remarks: Knowledge Exchange: Research to Policy	Ms. Merlita Opeña Division Chief, RICUD PCHRD

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Ernesto O. Domingo received his medical degree from University of the Philippines (UP) Manila and acquired his specialization in internal medicine at the Philippine General Hospital (PGH). He further specialized in Gastroenterology and Hepatology at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio.

Upon his return to the Philippines, Dr. Domingo spent over four decades in UP Manila as a researcher, teacher, chancellor, and university professor emeritus. He founded, along with a number of colleagues, the universal Health Care (UHC) Study Group in the hope of advancing universal healthcare in the country through research and advocacy. The group's efforts became the basis for the Department of Health's Universal Health Care Program dubbed "Kalusugang Pangkalahatan."

An expert and luminary in his field, Dr. Domingo conducted studies on schistosomiasis and its role in liver disease and the epidemiology of Hepatitis. He led and organized the Liver Study Group (LSG) of the University of the Philippines which has done major research on liver cancer, viral hepatitis, schistosomiasis japonica, and liver cirrhosis. His group led groundbreaking studies determined that immunizing newborns against hepatitis B within 24 hours from birth could reduce the probability of acquiring hepatitis by 95%.

He received distinguished honors and recognitions throughout his career, including being elected as Academician of the National Academy of Science and Technology (NAST) in 1992, the Civil Service Commission (CSC) Dangal ng Bayan Award, Science Achievement Award in Medicine from the National Researchers Council of the Philippines (NRCP), among others. He was given the rank and title of National Scientist of the Philippines, for his work in Internal Medicine and Gastroenterology, in 2010 and received international acclaim when he was honored with the Ramon Magsaysay Award in 2013 for his work in addressing the challenges in the public health system.

Today, Dr. Domingo has a private medical practice and holds clinic in Manila's best hospitals. He honors service to the nation through his work as an adviser and consultant to major research projects in health and healthcare. Even at his age, as an academician, a doctor, a research, a father, and a husband, Dr. Ernesto O. Domingo soldiers on.

Session Managers: Ana Ciaren Itulid & Ulyann Garcia, PCHRD

With the rising population and evolving diseases in the Philippines, it is important that health programs and policy makers provide solutions based on empirical evidence and significant research results. This forum will present health research programs on Sexual, Reproductive Health, HIV, Teenage Pregnancy, Mental Health, and how these interrelate and impact, and can be translated to policies and programs for the public.

Objectives:

1. To discuss the current status, updates and recent research findings of the topics
2. To understand how research results can help in formulating plans and policies and in fabricating and amending Public Health programs
3. To determine how research results can be effectively communicated to communities and stakeholders

PARALLEL SESSION 2

GOVERNANCE AND EQUITY IN HEALTH

1:30-5 PM | Main Hall B

“Health in All Policies” (HiAP) is systematic strategy for reducing population health inequities. HiAP merits the need for a high degree of interaction and interdependence across various sectors to achieve a common goal - Health Equity. Further, this collaboration among key stakeholders, both from the public and private sector, is crucial in harmonizing efforts and address unresolvable issues such as the negative effects of the different social determinants of health.

This parallel session serves as an avenue for key stakeholders to share experiences and showcase their existing interventions of how HiAP is being applied into practice. Moreover, this is an opportunity to elicit potential areas for research and identify policy gaps to inform future policy development.

PANELISTS

Hon. Herminigildo Velasco
